Wayne Reed Center—Help Needed!

In February, the Wayne Reed Center is conducting a two-part class for parents in which they learn about interviews: how to dress, what to expect, etc. Melinda Nowers is ready to do the "how to dress" part, but they need one or two people to explain what interviews are like, what bosses expect, and how to write a resume. The Center would also want to provide a role-play interview experience for those interested. If you have had experience as an employer or in human resources and would be interested in helping, email sandracol-lins822@hotmail.com or jackie@waynereedchildcare.org.
